1945 was the defining year of the last century.

At the beginning of the year, World War II still raged around the world. The bitter-est and most costly battles of Iwo Jima and Okinawa were yet to be fought.

On April 12, President Franklin Roosevelt died, thrusting an unknown inexperienced new leader into the role of Commander in Chief.

Even after victory in Europe was declared on May 8, our nation faced the grim prospect of invading Japan and the specter of millions of military and civilian casualties.

Then, on August 14, President Harry S. Truman announced that Japan had surrendered and spontaneous celebrations broke out around the world at the news that the war was over.

America immediately began the work of peace, helping rebuild the economies of its allies and former enemies alike, leading efforts to form the United Nations and other international institutions based on President Roosevelt’s “Four Freedoms,” and helping millions of returning veterans begin their civilian lives with the G.I. Bill and other programs.

And if the men and women of the World War II generation truly deserve to be called America’s ‘greatest,’ then August 14, 1945 was their greatest day - the day our country achieved victory over the forces of aggression, ended the horrors of the Holocaust, and then dedicated itself to building a more peaceful world in an unprece-dented effort to assure a better future for their children and their children’s children.

In 2010, Congress voted unanimously in favor of “Spirit of ’45 Day” - a new annual day of remembrance to honor the legacy of the men and women who were the “ordi-nary heroes” of the WWII generation.

This year marks the 70th anniversary of the end of WWII and provides families and communities in every city and town in America with an opportunity to come together to acknowledge these ordinary heroes who achieved such extraordinary things for our country and the world, and to help assure that their example of courage, shared sacrifice, can do attitude, service and national unity will continue to inspire future generations.

We are proud that you have made the commitment to come to San Diego to finalize plans for events and activities that will honor their legacy and keep their Spirit alive!
THE 70TH ANNIVERSARY OF THE END OF WORLD WAR II

February 2015

Since our founding, HISTORY® has been committed to honoring the World War II generation for their many sacrifices and their enormous contributions to our nation and our world. HISTORY continues to be a proud supporter of the Spirit of 45 campaign.

This year is a particularly important year as we reflect on the contributions of the World War II generation 70 years after the conclusion of the war. HISTORY is proud to join with the Spirit of 45 in commemorating the 70th anniversary of the end of the war along with organizations from around the country who will observe this important anniversary this year. Across the country communities will remember the Greatest Generation and will commit to upholding the important values of service and duty they exemplified.

Fewer and fewer of our World War II veterans are with us, which is why it is vital that we record their stories and preserve their legacy for future generations. We look forward to honoring the memory and legacy of the World War II generation together with the Spirit of 45 national partners gathered in San Diego. Together, you represent the many diverse men and women who came together to overcome fascism and make the world anew. We salute the Greatest Generation and honor their memory, today and always.

National Spirit of ‘45 Day

Whereas on August 14, 1945, the people of the United States received word of the end of World War II;

Whereas on that day, people in the United States and around the world greeted the news of the Allies’ noble victory with joyous celebration, humility, and spiritual reflection;

Whereas the victory marked the culmination of an unprecedented national effort that defeated the forces of aggression, brought freedom to subjugated nations, and ended the horrors of the Holocaust;

Whereas these historic accomplishments were achieved through the collective service and personal sacrifice of the people of the United States, both those who served in uniform and those who supported them on the home front;

Whereas more than 400,000 Americans gave their lives in service to their country during World War II;

Whereas, August 14, 1945, marked not only the end of the war, but also the beginning of an unprecedented era of rebuilding in which the United States led the effort to restore the shattered nations of the Allies and their enemies alike and to create institutions to work towards a more peaceful global community;

Whereas the men and women of the World War II generation created an array of organizations and institutions during the postwar era which helped to strengthen American democracy by promoting civic engagement, volunteerism, and service to community and country;

Whereas the courage, dedication, self-sacrifice, and compassion of the World War II generation have inspired subsequent generations in the United States Armed Forces, including the men and women currently in service in Iraq, Afghanistan, and around the world;

Whereas the entire World War II generation, military and civilian alike, has provided a model of unity and community that serves as a source of inspiration for current and future generations of Americans to come together to work for the continued betterment of the United States and the world; and

Whereas the second Sunday in August has been proposed “Spirit of ’45 Day” to commemorate the anniversary of the end of World War II on August 14, 1945:

Now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the House of Representatives (the Senate concurring), That Congress supports the observance of “Spirit of ’45 Day”.

Passed the House of Representatives July 26, 2010; Passed the Senate August 5, 2010
Elected Officials Rally to Support Spirit of ’45 Day

Sen. Susan Collins (ME) led the bipartisan coalition that introduced Spirit of ’45 Day in the Congress in 2010. Joining her as co-sponsors were Sen. Dan Inouye (HI) and Sen. Frank Lautenberg (NJ) the last two WWII veterans to serve in the Senate. Inouye and Lautenberg were honored for their service to their nation during Spirit of ’45 Day on August 11, 2013.

WWII War Bride Joy Beebe and daughter Barbara Jensen look on as Governor John Kitzhaber signs legislation making Spirit of ’45 Day a permanent annual state day in Oregon.

Iowa Governor Terry Branstad presents Spirit of ’45 Day proclamation to National Spokesman Jerry Yellin, who flew the final combat mission of WWII on August 14, 1945.
I am proud to have been asked to be a national spokesman for Spirit of ’45 Day and to co-chair the WWII Airpower Legacy project that will commemorate the 70th anniversary of the end of World War II with a nationwide flyover of “war birds” on the weekend of August 15-16, 2015.

The 70th anniversary of the end of WWII provides an opportunity for all Americans to remember the sacrifices and sense of common duty to one another that is the legacy of the men and women of the WWII generation – the “ordinary heroes” who endured the difficult times of the Great Depression, fought to defend freedom and democracy in WWII and then went on to build a more peaceful world.

This anniversary date has special significance for me: On August 14, 1945, as celebrations of joy and relief were breaking out all over America at the news the war had ended, I was flying the last combat mission over the Japanese island of Honshu. My friend, 2nd Lt. Phillip Schlamberg of Brooklyn, NY, who flew with me on the day WWII ended, was killed, making him the last casualty of the most destructive war in history.

In America, it was a day of great national unity and shared community, as our country turned from the terrible work of war to begin to rebuild a better future for the world. The millions of us who served in the war were welcomed home with the G.I. Bill and other programs to ease our transition to civilian life and to start our lives. In an act unprecedented in history, America reached out to both our allies and our former enemies in Europe to help them get back on their feet with the Marshall Plan. These farsighted policies laid the foundations for the creation of the greatest economy in the history of the world.

It was a time when everyone felt connected to each other and had a common duty to make the world a better place, and to assure a better future or ourselves, our children and our children’s children. We did not succeed in all the things we set out to achieve, nor were we by any means perfect, but we did our best to leave the world a better place and to try to set an example for those who would follow us, to inspire them to build on what we achieved and to help America become an even greater country.

It is my hope that the events and activities that are being planned for 2015 will assure that this legacy will be sustained and carried forward into the future, to continue to inspire Americans of all ages, especially the youth of our country. This should be our primary mission as together we lay the foundations for keeping the Spirit of ’45 alive.

San Diego lost one of its most beloved citizens last year when Jerry Coleman passed away at the age of 89.

Jerry was one of the first to support the “Keep the Spirit of ’45 Alive!” campaign, joining fellow WWII veterans Ernie Borgnine and Tony Curtis as a national spokesman in January 2010, and representing Spirit of ’45 Day in the National Veterans Day Parade in New York City later that year.

Jerry spent 71 years as a professional ballplayer and broadcaster, and served as a Marine pilot in both World War II and the Korean War, flying a total of 120 missions and earning two Distinguished Flying Crosses. On hearing the news of Jerry’s passing, Commissioner Bud Selig issued the following statement:

“Jerry Coleman was a hero and a role model to myself and countless others in the game of baseball. He had a memorable, multifaceted career in the National Pastime -- as an All-Star during the great Yankees’ dynasty from 1949-1953, a manager and, for more than a half-century, a beloved broadcaster for the San Diego Padres.

“But above all, Jerry’s decorated service to our country in both World War II and Korea made him an integral part of the greatest generation. He was a true friend whose counsel I valued greatly. Major League Baseball began its support of Welcome Back Veterans to honor the vibrant legacy of heroes like Jerry Coleman. Our entire sport mourns the loss of this fine gentleman…”

All of us who had the honor and privilege of knowing Jerry will always miss his good humor, wit and positive outlook on life. He will always be with us in Deep Spirit on the annual day that he did so much to make a reality.
Thank you Major League Baseball for keeping the Spirit of ‘45 alive in America!
Dear Friends

I’m delighted to be here with you at this Spirit of ’45 Leaders Conference where the countdown is on!

As you know, this year marks the 70th anniversary of the end of World War II and perhaps the last opportunity for America to come together to say “Thank you!” to the men and women who are often referred to as our country’s “Greatest Generation.”

Many of us have parents and extended family members who are proud members of the WWII generation, who grew up during the Great Depression, defeated oppression and collaborated to help end the Holocaust, and then began an unprecedented effort to ensure a better future for their children and their children's children. This 70th Anniversary provides us with another opportunity to honor those who helped preserve freedom.

I am proud that the American Society on Aging is a founding member of “Keep the Spirit of ’45 Alive,” the coalition that led the campaign that resulted in Congress unanimously voting for Spirit of ’45 Day, which is now being observed in August each year. ASA continues to help raise awareness of the Spirit of ’45 Day among its members with frequent articles in our by-monthly newspaper, Aging Today, and with presentations at our Aging in America Conferences.

We are especially inspired by the late Edith Shain, the nurse made famous around the world for the Life Magazine cover photo of her being kissed by a sailor in Times Square on August 14, 1945. Edith worked tirelessly to assure that this iconic image would inspire future generations to appreciate how important it is for people to come together as a community in difficult times.

ASA is helping commemorate the 70th Anniversary by encouraging the members of the senior living and care giving community to take part in events and activities that are being organized around the country to pay tribute to the surviving members of the WWII generation, and to help share their stories of courage, shared sacrifice and service.

I am so proud to join other Spirit of ’45 leaders as together we plan for this year’s once-in-history commemoration. None of us will ever forget what we are about to achieve – celebratory events, large and small, dedicated to recognizing those who served in uniform and those who supported them on the Home Front.

Together let’s help ensure that what they achieved on behalf of America and the world will forever be remembered.

Thank you for helping to keep their Spirit alive.

Sincerely,

Robert G. Stein

Dear Mr. Hegg:

I wish to commend your efforts and that of everyone involved with “Keep the Spirit of ’45 Alive” to commemorate the end of World War II.

The American Battle Monuments Commission is honored to support your global initiative to remember the achievements and sacrifice of America’s Armed Forces. It will be marvelous to witness the rolling ceremonies in each of the time zones across the globe at 11:00 a.m. on August 16, 2015.

Over 405,000 American servicemen and women sacrificed their lives so that we can have the Freedoms and liberties that we enjoy today. The American Battle Monuments Commission is the steward of the shrines that commemorate them. Over 93,000 of those Americans rest permanently in one of our cemeteries overseas. Another 78,900 rest in graves known only to God and are commemorated on ABMC’s walls of the missing, lost at sea and buried at sea.

One of my favorite poems is written by Archibald MacLeish, who lost a brother in World War I. In his poem The Young Soldiers Do Not Speak, MacLeish writes “We leave you our deaths. Give them their meaning.” MacLeish challenges us to reflect on the true cost of war.

General of the Armies John J. Pershing, our first chairman, made a promise to families of America’s fallen. The promise that “time will not dim the glory of their deeds.”

The American Battle Monuments Commission strives to fulfill his promise through its’ commemorative programs. Your efforts with “Keep the Spirit of ’45 Alive” do much the same.

Thank you for all you have done to recognize the service, achievements and sacrifice of America’s World War II generation.

Godspeed!

Most respectfully,

Max Cleland
